What is a Mind Map?

Type of diagram, it is a visual way to organise information

One mind map represents one topic (History- Normans- Conquest and Control 1066- 69)

Name of the topics go in the center and the sub topics around the side.

Details are short and to the point.

Boxes or bubbles can help information stand out

Colours and images can be used to help.

Battles

Rebellions

Succession Crisis

- No clear heir to the throne
- Edgar- male inheritance, support of some Witan.
- Harald- force and male inheritance

Revising topics

Organising material visually can make it easier to recall in an exam

Colour and images can help topics and information to stick in your memory

Mind maps can help you to identify the key ideas of a topic and find links between them, which can help you see the topic in different ways.

Battles

Harald- force-
invasion- Stamford
Bridge

Succession Crisis

- No clear heir to the throne
- Edgar- male inheritance, support of some Witan.
- Harald- force and male inheritance

You can keep using them

Mind maps are useful for subjects where there are links between ideas

Put them somewhere visual before assessments

BUT- less useful for learning a list of formula or vocab lists
