			must.
Mon				If you have a club, then you can't revise at that time!
Tues
Weds		Obviously you cannot revise when you are at school!
Thurs
Friday
Sat	You need to be realistic about when you can't revise. If you have a sleep in at the week end, don't make yourself revision from 6am!

Revision Timetable

To help divide your day into revision sessions, think about-

- What time of the day you work best
- What time you get up/ go to bed
- How long you think you can revise every day
- Fitting in breaks of at least 10 minutes.

Revision Timetable

Fill in your commitments.

- Hobbies and exercise
- Holidays and birthdays
- Time with friends and family
- Keep time free incase something unexpected comes up- there may be things that you can't plan for.

Revision Timetable

Add your subjects.

- Decide how much time you need to spend on each subject based on:
  - Which you find hardest
  - Which has the most amount of content
  - What exam is first/ last.

Revision Timetable

Add your topics under your subjects.
You need to revise topics multiple times.
You don't have to do this step straight away you might prefer to fill in the topics at the start of each week once you know how you are getting along, depending on what you are confidence/struggling with.

Revising a topic several times with gaps inbetween is the most successful way to revise.
Don't try to revise one subject a day- it won't work!

Check list

- ☐ Have you included all of your exams for every subject?
- ☐ Have you added in topics for at least the first week?
- ☐ Have you included the date of the exams?
- ☐ Does the timetable include a mixture of subjects every day?
- ☐ Have you planned in regular breaks?
- ☐ Have you left time for what you enjoy doing?
- ☐ Have you left gaps to change if you need to?

Activity

Start filling in a revision timetable.

Remember to be realistic with what you can do.
